A New Conflict on the Status of the Rebel States

The condition of things in the South has been of late as badly mixed as in Mexico but according to present appearances, from the late decision of the Supreme Court the conflict of authorities from Virginia to Texas will very soon be confusion worse confounded" This conflict is already becoming so sharply defined in various causes and places that with the reassembling of Congress after New Year's the attention of the two houses will probably be drawn to the question of some decisive course of action in reference to the present status of the rebel States

We understand that a general order is in preparation by the President to be directed to the commanders of the Southern military departments, informing them of the Supreme Court decision against the illegality of courts martial for the trial of civilians and directing them to confine themselves strictly to military duties leaving judicial questions to the civil courts An order to this effect has already been issued to General Schofield commanding the Department of Virginia, in the suspension of the military trial which he had commenced in the case of a Dr Watson charged with the murder of a negro, and as having been unjustly acquitted or too loosely tried by the local magistrates concerned A similar order has been given to General Sickles, commanding the Department of North and South Carolina and Georgia, in the countermanding his military orders superseding the local civil authorities in various things, among others setting aside an order forbidding the sale of any person or persons by the local courts except for crime Thus far, then, the President reaffirms the restoration of the rebel States to the status of loyal States His Southern orders, based upon this aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court, on the Indiana military trial case of Milligan and and others supersede his own Southern military course of supervision hitherto pursued, as certain laws of Congress passed at the last session The question thus comes up in a peremptory voice, how far can Congress proceed in its work of Southern reconstruction without coming into collision with the Supreme Court "as now constituted?"

We are next informed, in a dispatch from Washington, that a case is soon to be made before the Supreme Court which will involve the question whether Alabama is a State of the Federal Union, or what her present status is if she is not a State This case is probably an appeal from Judge Busteed, United States District Judge for the district comprising the State or part of the State of Alabama, in a matter upon which he decided not long ago that the payment of a debt in rebel Confederate scrip is no payment at all In any event the decision of the Supreme Court upon this appeal will be a decision of more than ordinary importance, especially if the court shall assume to overrule the decisions made after a four years civil war by a million of Union soldiers in that final appeal to the bayonet Meantime we have a dispatch from Charleston which says that a member of the State Senate of South Carolina a certain rebel Colonel Weatherby, reports that the President had given him his opinion "that the Southern States, through their Legislatures, should reject the proposed constitutional amendment, but in such terms as not to give offence to those who are urging it upon the South" and that such action, the President believes "would be sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States—at least he had reason to hope that it would"

Now there may be something more in this than is apparent upon the surface It is a curious fact at any rate that, notwithstanding the late overwhelming popular judgments of the loyal States upon this amendment, all the rebel States have indignantly rejected it, and that South Carolina, the last to act upon it, has rejected it by a more decisive vote than any other of those States, there being only one voice in her Legislature in the affirmative It is thus apparent that the President a continued opposition has resulted in a coalition of the excluded States against Congress and that if we may believe the report of the Colonel Weatherby, Mr Johnson expects, from the intervention of the Supreme Court, a victory over Congress in a decision which will justify him in the enforcement, if necessary, of his own peculiar policy against Congress We are inclined to believe that the report of the rebel Colonel Weatherby, from various circumstances, and especially from the fact that Judge Magruder, of Maryland, a Southern rights jurist, is working very industriously against the United States authorities to carry up certain cases of the sale of negroes against the Civil Rights bill into the Supreme Court And yet again, Governor Worth, of North Carolina, an ex rebel, not fully reconstructed, looks to the Supreme Court for deliverance

Here, then we have the elements of a new conflict with Congress The issue, in the appeal from Congress to the people, has been decided by the people against the President's policy, and in favor of Congress Can the Supreme Court reverse the decisions of the war and of the people of the loyal States? If so, then one man of the Supreme Court holds the destinies of this country, peace or war, subject to his ipse dixit, for it appears that upon this late Milligan decision the Court was divided five to four One man against the decisions of the armies and navies of the loyal States in a four years' civil war, one man against the overwhelming popular verdict of those States, as pronounced in the late elections. If this thing is attempted, as expected, there will be a new conflict, which will inevitably end in a thorough radical work of reconstruction, and hence the necessity of an understanding of the position of the Supreme Court now to avoid this danger The report is abroad that the Court is relied upon to upset the pending Constitutional amendment in a decision which must necessarily involve the legality of Congress and all its acts of the last five years and declare the war a failure Under the Milligan decision there is already a movement for the release of Mudd, one of the confederates of Booth the assassin, and under the same authority the President himself, in the matter of the military trial of the Booth gang of traitors and murderers may be held to account But the question is shall one man in the Supreme Court stand in the way of the loyal States and of Congress in reference to Southern restoration? And the answer devolves on Congress"—N Y Herald

UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE IN MICHIGAN—The Detroit correspondent of a Chicago paper says

The ferment in the Democratic camp in this State over the question of universal suffrage continues notwithstanding the cold weather The State Democratic organ, after giving strong signs of coming out openly in favor of universal suffrage suddenly drew back again for a time It had consulted the Democratic leaders and they were divided Moreover, the party was divided The consultation and debates showed that the party could neither stay in its old tracks, or move forward without a little internal feud The shrewdest leaders wished to strike out at once for the new policy The small fry hesitated The organ found itself unable to decide without aid It could not procure the arrangement made in Illinois, whereby the party leaders secure the Chicago paper against loss by raising a fund for it The leaders in Michigan have little money to spend, and will not spend what they have They want their organ to go ahead—at its own risk This placed the proprietors and editors in a cruel dilemma If it should come out fairly for universal suffrage its subscribers would drop off by the hundred, and take the Chicago universal suffrage paper Moreover its editors see plainly that the party must come upon the universal suffrage platform next summer when the election for the members of a State Constitutional Convention is held and when the Republicans may propose to make suffrage impartial but limit it by a loyalty and intelligence test rather than give up the ghost

The experiment is being tried of taking $400 000 000 a year from the people of the United States in the shape of Internal Revenue taxes The point of exhaustion has already been reached in numerous quarters where profits of industry do not yield the tax, and where it is levied on and collected out of capital invested The stone blind surely can see the end of this Unless American industry can be made profitable so that taxation can take from profits and not touch capital the public resources will inevitably fail, the business of the country and much of its realized wealth will be whelmed under bankruptcy and the party now in power will be hurled out of office with a passion and unanimity unprecedented in our politics Where the day, gentlemen in Washington when politics shall crystalize about the question of direct taxation You can only avert that day by saving to American Industry its own market, by imposing sufficient checks on foreign importations through a Protective Tariff—Tribune

Redivison of Idaho and Washington

In the winter of 1865 6 the people of Northern Idaho became convinced that their interests would be enhanced by a division of Idaho, separating them from the people South of the Salmon range of mountains Their representatives caused to be introduced into the Legislature of that winter, a memorial to Congress to that effect But this was defeated by the majority from Southern Idaho Subsequently citizens from the Northern counties assembled at Lewiston in a mass meeting and unanimously adopted a memorial to Congress for a division, but too late to be presented at that session They furthermore appointed two persons to confer with the people of Eastern Washington, asking their co-operation in the measure, and their union with us in the formation of a new Territory This committee were met by the politicians at Walla Walla with a degree of coldness, and came back somewhat disheartened, in the prospect of securing the full and hearty co-operation of the Walla Wallians

The press of that place treated the subject cavalierly, and thus the hope of effecting such a union between the two sections for a time seemed to be dim. Since then Walla Walla has vainly endeavored to remove the political center of Washington east of the Cascades It has also vainly urged to be attached to the State of Oregon And now we find the press of Walla Walla urging a redivision of Washington, the attaching of the Puget Sound district to the State of Oregon, and the other boundaries of Washington extending so as to include Eastern Oregon and Washington, and Northern Idaho

So far as the new Territory of Washington thus proposed, we readily admit if the proposition be practicable, it is a good one But we cannot say as much for the new boundaries of Oregon, and we doubt the willingness of that state to exchange Eastern Oregon for the Puget Sound district. The changes required to effect this object are too many and complicated, to inspire the hope of effecting them within the next five years, a period too long for the people of Northern Idaho to suffer the evils which have oppressed them for the last two years We therefore trust and still hope that our Walla Walla friends will restrict the boundaries of their proposed new Territory to Eastern Washington, or even a part of it, and Northern Idaho, which certainly have as natural boundaries, and as homogenous affinities and interests, as the section of country proposed by them for a new Territory. We of North Idaho are willing to concede to the people of Walla Walla, that they were taken by surprise, and were therefore unprepared to receive our former proposition and act wisely upon it, and we hope they are now ready to confer and co-operate with us for the common good of each, like political communities who are oppressed by like political evils

We can assure our friends in Walla Walla, that, so far as we know the sentiment of the people of Northern Idaho, they are, to a man, ready to meet the people of Eastern Washington on common ground, and fairly and justly arrange a programme for our union of Territorial boundaries, apportioning to each section its quota of advantages and burdens This they have ever been ready to do, since the question of division was first canvassed among us Can more be asked of us?

If our friends of Eastern Washington accede to the proposition of Northern Idaho, we urge upon them the policy of early making known their readiness to co-operate, as in all probability action will be taken upon this question at the present sitting of Congress The Idaho Legislature at its present session, have almost unanimously memorialized Congress for a re-division of both Idaho and Washington, and the creation of a new Territory to be called Columbia, and the question is being strenuously urged upon Congressmen and Senators at Washington

Opposition to the measure which once existed in Southern Idaho, has given way, and the people of North Idaho, and Eastern Washington, have the representation of the pros and cons in their own hands

Should division and such a union take place, the federal part of the government of the Territory should be filled by citizens from the people of the two sections so united We need no more importations to official positions among us, such as have been imposed upon the people of Idaho If we have not men among us who sufficiently understand our relations to the Federal Government to administer intelligently and faithfully between us and the Federal Government, we had better abandon the country to the Indians and seek homes elsewhere, for, of all the curses which have been attached to the government of the people of Idaho, some of our imported Federal appointees have been among the worst, and shown the least knowledge of our real wants and interests—Lewiston Journal

SUFFRAGE EXPERIMENT—The bill decreeing manhood suffrage for the District of Columbia has passed both Houses of Congress over the President's veto, and is therefore a law The experiment of an equal ballot for both white and colored citizens is, therefore to be first tried in the territory over which Congress has exclusive jurisdiction It is of course, obnoxious to a great majority of the white citizens but emancipation, and the extension to blacks of common privileges in public vehicles, were even more obnoxious, if possible, and as the Columbians become reconciled to these reforms they will soon learn not only to acquiesce in impartial suffrage, but to wonder that it ever appalled them We have spoken of impartial suffrage in the District as an experiment It is such only so far as its establishment by the direct authority of Congress is concerned, for there was a time early about the close of the last century and the beginning of this, when every adult freeman, in every State of the Union except South Carolina, was a voter There have been members of Congress from Southern States within 30 years, who confessed that they owed their election to negro votes The growth of the pro slavery influence in our politics, and the passions and fears excited by the abolition movement, led to a restriction of the privileges enjoyed by the free blacks and strengthened an injustice which the shock of a great civil war has not entirely removed It probably would have been better for the country if the question of suffrage at the seat of Government could have been adjusted on the basis of intelligence but reforms long delayed are seldom gradual and they are apt to be accomplished per saltum, when all the strain of adjustment comes suddenly The opponents of impartial suffrage in the District were not willing that the test of intelligence should be applied to whites as well as black, even prospectively, and hence the friends of the measure insisted upon making it radical Great efforts have been making in the District for two years past to educate the colored people Five thousand at one time, twelve months ago were receiving instruction, mostly by means of voluntary effort Congress will probably devise some plan for improving and extending the public school system of the District—Baltzin

THE SUEZ CANAL.—A letter from Malta says

The works of the Suez Canal are being very actively carried forward by M de Lesseps, who at present however, is not in Egypt An average depth of seven to nine feet has been obtained between Port Said, along the salt water canal, and the rest of the distance to Suez is traversed temporarily by a fresh water canal about seven feet deep, connected with the other by means of locks and powerful pumps As far as 60 station the full width of the proposed ship canal has been excavated of 60 meters From that point to 70 station at Ismalia the width is complete. All that has been done has been done well, and reflects the highest credit on the science, skill and perseverance energy of the French engineers The real difficulty of dredging in a constantly dissolving sand are now commenced, but well informed persons entertain but little doubt these and all others may be overcome by time and money As to what amount of these important necessaries will be required to bring the great work to a successful completion it is scarcely possible at the present stage to hazard a conjecture

A NOVEL MACHINE—An editor in Illinois recently saw a patent clothes washer It was in the shape of a wheelbarrow The revolutions of the wheel put in motion a crank that moved a plunger that pounded the clothes The body of the box was mounted where the load is in a wheelbarrow On the top of the box was a wringer A lady can put her clothes in her machine pick it up and go out calling The leager her list of friends the further she will have to wheel her burden and the better her clothes will be washed Calling will then be of some use, and an eternal gadabout will become a first rate washerwoman

Surratt and the Informer Against Him

[From the Montreal Miserve]

The name of Surratt's denouncer in Rome is Henry Benjamin Ste Marie, not Ludger as we stated yesterday We must add that he was not discharged from the Banque du Peuple, but, on the contrary, left it of his own free will, having given complete satisfaction to the Chief of the office A few days after he left the Education Office he sent back a portion of the money which he had earned away, and his relations have paid the balance

Ste Marie belongs to an excellent family, who no doubt greatly regret the echo which his name has received from these late incidents, but whose honor cannot be effected by the aberrations, no matter what, of one of its members Ste Marie went to the United States He had some acquaintances at Baltimore, and he obtained letters of recommendation for Washington It was there that he knew Surratt. The latter, indeed obtained for him the place of schoolmaster in a village, named Texas, in Maryland, and it is under the title of schoolmaster that he is spoken of in the dispatch of General King He afterward took service on board the State of Georgia, and then in the army of the North. At the conclusion of a murderous engagement he was left for dead on the field of battle, and in endeavoring to escape he fell into the hands of the Confederate troops, who sent him on to Richmond

There he furnished Mr Seddon some valuable information as to the conduct of certain individuals who did not hesitate, under an exterior of zeal and patriotism, to deceive and rob the Government This conduct of Ste Marie consolated for him the favor of the Government at Richmond, which procured for him the means of going to Nassau, and thence to Liverpool. After some time spent in France and Belgium, he returned to Canada. In the course of last summer he took his passage for Marseilles from Montreal, on board of a French merchant vessel. He lived some time at Marseilles, then at Ajaccio, in Bornica, and afterward proceeded to Rome, where he took service in the Papal troops

As to Surratt, this is what we learn of his intimacy since the 14th of April Before that date he had made several voyages from Washington to Canada as the bearer of dispatches addressed to the Agent of the Confederate Government at Montreal.

At the end of Lent he was in Canada, and on Palm Sunday he was present at mass in the parish church at Montreal. He wrote to his mother an account of the ceremony, which has been published in several of the American papers On Thursday, April 28th, set out for Washington, in the evening he was in Elmira, in the State of New York, where he passed the night. His name may be seen on the register of the hotel. On Saturday morning the newspapers made him acquainted with the assassination of Lincoln. Seeing his name on the list of persons accused of the crime, he resolved to fly, and took the road back to Canada. The cars were detained at St. Albans, where he had to pass the day on Sunday At the station he lost his pocket handkerchief, on which was his name, which did not contribute to quiet his apprehension He reached Montreal on Monday evening. His friends counselled him to proceed at once to Europe, which he did by one of the first steamers which left Quebec He remained some time at Birkenhead, near Liverpool, where, in the autumn, he met Mr Cameron, the celebrated bearer of dispatches intended to prove that Young and his companions were regularly commissioned by the Confederate Government

Such are the accounts communicated to us by a person in whom we have full confidence. Mr. Potter, therefore, must have been mistaken in the identity of Surratt, since he announced that he had left for England only in the month of September It was Cameron who left Canada for Liverpool at that time, and (

Chivalry Redivivus

A dispatch states that the "Washington evening organ of the President declares that if Congress pursues its treasonable course much further, the Administration in order to sustain itself will arm its supporters" Fearful threat! Terrible declaration! This minacious announcement dictated by the Administration itself, will, without doubt, immediately arrest the "treasonable course of Congress and convert its members to the "patriotic policy" of the late Richmond "Government" The roaring of the President's organ will undoubtedly settle the business Its bluster will at once annihilate the spirit of Congress as well as of the people! After this exhibition of chivalrous bravado there can be no doubt that the President will be permitted to hold his own course unmolested by Congress, and that Congress will content itself with merely registering the edicts of the man who threatens to annihilate it, if it dares to disobey his will.

Perhaps it is somewhat unfortunate that the "supporters" whom the Administration has determined to arm, are becoming a little unused to their profession They surrendered to the Abolitionists about two years ago, and having been on parole since that time, have had no opportunity for military exercitation. But they are about to have a chance again. Of this army of "supporters," Mr R E Lee of Virginia, will of course be commander in-chief. Probably his commission has already been issued. The puissant Beauregard will be one of his principal lieutenants Mr. Jefferson Davis will be the best man for the War Department. John Morrissey can enlist a regiment of "dead rabbits" among his New York constituents No better "supporters of the Administration" can be found. Forrest will probably be authorized to make a raid on Nashville and massacre old Brownlow and his Legislature. When the Southern Confederacy is once fairly revived, with its capital at Washington instead of at Richmond, it must necessarily succeed

Such is the opinion of the Confederates, but they may be mistaken It is just possible that these paper bullets, fired by "the President's overwhelming organ," may not entirely subjugate Congress Notwithstanding this chivalrous bluster, the latest manifestation of "plantation manners," we shall continue to think that Congress will pursue its own course, undeterred by the threats of the individual who "has filled every office from Alderman up"

Driven to Quibbles and Evasions.

The Herald, driven from every position in the controversy with us about the founder of its party and his "esteemed friend" Burr, has no resource left but petty quibbling and pitiful misrepresentations. As this is its last refuge, we shall be charitable. We must, however, correct one or two of its erroneous representations in regard to an article we published about a week ago. It says we then denied that Burr was the candidate of the Federalists for the Presidency. Certainly, and we deny it still. Adams was the Federal candidate; but, (and we repeat it once more, so that the Herald may understand,) as Jefferson and Burr, the Democratic candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency had more votes than the Federal candidates for those positions, they, (Jefferson and Burr,) became rivals for the first office. Under this state of affairs, the Federalists generally voted for Burr, since they were compelled to choose between him and Jefferson; but Burr was not their candidate. He was a Democratic candidate as we have before fully shown, and never voted with the Federal party.

Again, the Herald says that we ten times asserted in one article that Burr and Jefferson were the Democratic Republican candidates for President We did not assert it once We simply said that they were the Democratic candidates in the election of 1800, and we put the name of Burr first because the principal controversy was then about him,—the Herald having asserted that he was the candidate of the Federalists, when in point of fact he was a Democrat, and the Federalists voted for him only because they were compelled to do so. The Herald further asserts that we strenuously denied that these two men were "respectively the Democratic candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency." We denied nothing of the kind, but insisted that such was the case. The Herald said that Burr was the Federal candidate, which we denied, and have disproved

That paper must be reduced to desperate straits when it is compelled to have recourse to petty quibbling, such as would be ridiculed in a boys' debating society

The Branch Mint at San Francisco.

The Alta of the 24th inst. has some valuable statistics showing the operations of the San Francisco Mint for 1866, from which we present the following compilation:

The deposits of gold for the year amounted to $17,270,928 35, of silver, $1,077,705 55—making a total of $18,357,603 90.

The gold coinage amounted to $17,362,000 Of this amount, $16,845,000 was in double eagles; $200,000 in eagles; $319,600 in half eagles, and $97,400 in quarter eagles.

The amount of silver coinage was $568,500, of which $527,000 was in half dollars, $7,000 in quarter dollars, $13,500 in dimes and $6,000 in half dimes.

Of the gold bullion received at the mint, California is credited with $9,600,317, Idaho with $2,361,025, Oregon with $1,074,537, Montana with $769,450, and Nevada with $57,023. About $3,000,000 comes from sources not particularly specified.

Much the greater part of the silver received at the mint came from Nevada. That State is credited with $723,165, and Idaho with $110,984

The total number of pieces coined at the mint for the year was 2,282,517.

One of the charges made against General Butler, which will probably be investigated on the trial of his libel suit against "Brick" Pomeroy, is that made some few months since by a New Orleans correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who stated.

That Butler had supplied the Confederate army of General Earl Van Dorn, with large quantities of needed supplies in exchange for cotton He said there were trains loaded with these goods, and that the Confederates were supplied by the Federal commander with the means of slaying Union soldiers The writer of the letter gave his name as John B Watson, and said he was perfectly cognisant of the facts, and gave the name of one of the agents sent by Butler to Van Dorn's headquarters to make a bargain for an exchange of five thousand sacks of salt, shoes, blankets, etc, for cotton He further stated that he had sent a full statement of the affair to the Secretary of War, but no public notice had been taken of the matter.

Horace Greeley not long ago wrote a letter to Governor Perry of South Carolina proposing his theory (universal amnesty and impartial suffrage) as a basis for settlement Governor Perry replied, indignantly spurning the offer Perhaps Mr Greeley may be made to understand that a people who fought desperately for four years to destroy the Government, and who now reject even the mildest terms of the conquerors, are unworthy of such leniency, and in fact, have not been conquered enough. After this over generous offer has been spurned, what else would weak kneed Union ists propose?

Judge Busteed, of the United States Court at Huntsville, Alabama, has directed the indictment for treason of persons who defame the Congress of the United States"

Naval Movements

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The United States steamer Resaca was to leave Pernambuco on the 17th of December, for the Pacific. The Brooklyn, Pensacola and Wabash were at Montevideo on the 9th, the Pensacola being on her way to the Pacific

Clothing for Fenian Prisoners.

TORONTO Jan 23.—A large invoice of clothing for the Fenian prisoners arrived here few days ago The person to whom it was addressed refused to pay the duties, and it was held by the Custom authorities until the American Consul paid the charges and gave the clothing to the prisoners

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, January 23 —the Dry Goods market shows little or no improvement in trade Business is confined to the pressing wants of buyers with no change in prices.

The people of Jefferson county, West Virginia, have refused to pay the taxes of Governor Boreman's legislature in order to test the legality of their forced reparation from the Old Dominion

The plan for the central monument of the Gettysburg National Cemetery has been agreed upon It is to be a white marble shaft, 47 feet high, costing $47,500, with one or more statues by Rogers

A new statute of Missouri provides that all persons who are presented by a grand jury as vagrants and shall by a jury trial have been found to be such, shall be hired out to labor, by the sheriff, for six months. In St Louis recently six vagrants were presented

Careful estimates make the present number of sheep in the United States 30,000,000, and the product 95,000 000—an increase of 7,528,725 sheep in five years last past, against an increase of 748,056 the previous ten years, and of 34,235,087 pounds of wool the last five years, against 7,747,954 pounds the previous ten years.

Henry Knause, residing in Hamburg Berks county Pa., set a gun trap in the smoke house for the benefit of some thieves who had stolen his meat He forgot that he had set the trap and was the first to open the door of the smoke-house, when the gun was discharged, and he was almost instantly killed

The Baltimore Commercial says that the prosperity of that city at the present time is "unprecedented" Last year there were 720 building permits issued, including those for renovations and repairs The returns for this year up to the present time show that 1,318 permits have been issued, of which over 1,000 were for new buildings

William Jones of Liberty county, Ga., has made good progress in the tea culture After several unsuccessful attempts, in March 1860, he became the possessor of 60 flourishing young plants—Those were set out in a loose soil, in rows five feet apart, they grew finely for two years, when the first leaves were picked, and from that time to the present the yield has been from five to six pounds yearly

It is a singular fact that although but one revolutionary pensioner—Samuel Downing, of Edinburgh, Saratoga county N. Y.—now survives, there are no less than 831 widows of revolutionary soldiers still on the pension rolls. The greater longevity of women will not account for this discrepancy, and the fact that pensioners live long, seems equally in favor of both sexes Of course, the widows of those killed in battle swelled the proportion of female pensioners very largely, but this could not have multiplied it 900 times, hardly 10 times Probably, in consideration that "none but the brave deserve the fair," (not to speak of the pensions,) the surviving heroes were generally and even repeatedly blessed with youthful and blooming brides There are now, in round numbers, 45,000 invalids, and 79,000 widows and relatives on the rolls, at an annual cost of $11, 500,000

New York Items

The tax levy of the city for the next year will exceed $19,000,000. Its debt is $33,500,000

Frauds upon the revenue are known to have been perpetrated by some of the largest silk and lace importers in this city, by undervalued invoices, etc One importing house was made to pay $30,000 in gold for attempting to evade the law

President Johnson has revoked the exequatur granted to Gerhard Janssen, Consul of Oldenburg to New York, and Janssen having refused to appear in the Supreme Court of New York in an action against him and others, pending his consular privilege

The corporation of this city have brought suit against Charles G Cornell, late Street Commissioner, for several hundred thousand dollars, which he is said to have squandered or appropriated He is charged with fraud corruption and malfeasance in his official capacity

The Berlin correspondent of the World says a dispatch has been received by the American Minister from Mr Seward disapproving of the Minister's conciliatory attitude in reference to Prussia impressing Americans into its service The dispatch was read to the Government authorities, but no action has been taken

A CAUTION.—The Montana Post of January 2d, publishes the annexed The following is a copy of the most recent effusion of the Vigilance Committee of this place, and to those interested it will well repay perusal Read and reflect In view of the fact that crime has run riot to such an alarming extent in the Territory of Montana, (particularly East of the Missouri river,) during the past six months and that murders and high handed outrages have been of such frequent occurrence as to excite the indignation of all good citizens, it is believed that it is now time that the good work should be re commenced Therefore, this is to notify all whom it may concern that crime must and will be suppressed and to that end, all offenders will be summarily dealt with, and published as of old By order of the Vigilance Committee

The following well illustrates rebel or Democratic toleration

The Memphis Avalanche continues its proscription of Union men in that city and publishes a black list of business men who were opposed to the rebellion In a recent editorial it says "From this time henceforth and forever, let every true Southern man who was an ox reuel, or whose son, brother father or kin was one—let him avoid the business houses of Wolcott, Smith & Co and W H Moore Henceforth they are famous "Small Pox" or "Tarantula." Either will answer"

The Umatilla Press mentions a rumor that Nelson Parsons, the Great Creek expressman has been lost in the snow somewhere between Burke's and Indept dence

As soon as the fact of the assassination of Patrick Brown's session became known says the Umatilla Press the Coroner and the Sheriff of the county repaired to Mr C J Jeff proceeded to the Blue Mountains in the vicinity and exhaustive ground had long previous examination made of the body of the victim with a view to discovery of the charged with having murdered Three wounds were found to be in the region of the kidneys and from their nature were necessarily fatal The balls were extracted and found to correspond almost exactly in size and weight with the rifle ball in Brown's pistol at the time of his arrest Had this fact been discovered before the arrest the fellows would not have escaped as they did The prosecution was certainly at fault in not having had the examination made at the time of the discovery of the body We trust the authorities will be more careful in examining into such matters in the future

Henry Hartman says the Mountaineer was brought in during the week from Cedarville and placed in the County Hospital where he died Tuesday after noon It was known that Mr Hartman was possessed of considerable money when it was supposed to be buried in the neighborhood of his house at Cedarville and his death being reported Marshal Keeler of the whereabouts of the treasure and desired him to go and get it Mr Keeler accordingly went to Cedarville and after a thorough search, returned without finding any money Yesterday a further search was made and the missing place found but the money had disappeared In a corner of his house was found a place which had recently been dug up, and upon digging, a prayer book and some old rags were all that could be found—the gold having been taken It is generally thought that Hartman was worth about ten thousand dollars the greater part of which was supposed to be buried in his house There is no clue as to who got the money and probably there never will be.

A correspondent writes from Canyon City to the Mountaineer Jan 12th as follows

"One item of vast importance to this place, is the marvellous mildness of the winter It is an absolute fact that this is the first day that the wheels at Hendricks have suspended operation and to-day it is more on account of wind than Winter This winter we have not had enough snow to track a cat and hardly ice enough to bear it's weight of one All kinds of stock is fat and beef and butter cheaper than it was last summer this is owing not altogether to the mildness of the winter but also to the fact that stockmen now be kept without the cost of a guard to keep off the Indians

The Idaho Statesman has the following in regard to the Chico route

We call attention of members of Congress and the post-office department to the fact that the mail route from Chico to this place is a humbug in every sense of the word It has doubtless been run at an inferior stage line which made a few trips in schedule time when the rock was fresh to a one-horse stock arrangement, which carries nothing of consequence at all and that without reference to the time. The mails have been sent out from Chico on the road, and have been accumulating for months on the route We understand that some government teams brought in seven bags last week to which fact we are indebted for half a basket of California ex changes of old dates It is reported that there are large amounts still behind When they will arrive no one knows, probably when some bull team hauls them along

REIGN OF THE RECONSTRUCTED.—A Raleigh dispatch of the 20th ult says

Colonel Hamford, commanding the United States forces in this State, interfered and prevented the Sheriff from inflicting corporeal punishment on a negro this morning Judge Daniel D Fowler ordered the indictment of all the military officers concerned in the transaction The negro was to turned after receiving eight lashes, and the soldiers left the ground Indictments will be issued against the officers, and the negro will be whipped to-morrow Judge Fowler has called on the Governor to carry out the laws of the State

Chivalry Redivivus

A dispatch states that the "Washington evening organ of the President declares that if Congress pursues its treasonable course much further the Administration in order to sustain itself, will arm its supporters" Fearful threat' Terrible declaration! This ominous announcement, dictated by the 'Administration itself,' will, without doubt, immediately arrest the 'treasonable course of Congress and convert its members to the 'patriotic policy" of the late Richmond' Government. The roaring of the President's organ will undoubtedly settle the business Its bluster will at once annihilate the spirit of Congress as well as of the people! After this exhibition of chivalrous bravado there can be no doubt that the President will be permitted to hold his own course unmolested by Congress, and that Congress will content itself with merely registering the edicts of the man who threatens to annihilate it, if it dares to disobey his will

Perhaps it is somewhat unfortunate that the "supporters" whom the Administration has determined to arm are becoming a little unused to their profession They surrendered to the Abolitionists about two years ago, and having been on parole since that time, have had no opportunity for military exercitation. But they are about to have a chance again Of this army of "supporters," Mr B E Lee of Virginia, will of course, be commander in-chief. Probably his commission has already been issued. The pursuant Beauregard will be one of his principal lieutenants. Mr Jefferson Davis will be the best man for the War Department. John Morrissey can enlist a regiment of "dead rabbits" among his New York constituents No butter "supporters of the Administration" can be found Forrest will probably be authorized to make a raid on Nashville and massacre old Brownlow and his Legislature. When the Southern Confederacy is once fairly revived, with its capital at Washington instead of at Richmond, it must necessarily succeed

Such is the opinion of the Confederates, but they may be mistaken It is just possible that these paper bullets, fired by "the President's evening organ," may not entirely subjugate Congress Notwithstanding this chivalrous bluster, the latest manifestation of "plantation manners," we shall continue to think that Congress will pursue its own course, undeterred by the threats of the individual who "has filled every office from Alderman up"

Driven to Quibbles and Evasions,

The Herald, driven from every position in the controversy with us about the founder of its party and his "esteemed friend" Burr, has no resource left but petty quibbling and pitiful misrepresentations. As this is its last refuge, we shall be charitable. We must, however, correct one or two of its erroneous representations in regard to an article we published about a week ago. It says we then denied that Burr was the candidate of the Federalists for the Presidency. Certainly, and we deny it still. Adams was the Federal candidate, but, (and we repeat it once more, so that the Herald may understand,) as Jefferson and Burr, the Democratic candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency had more votes than the Federal candidates for those positions, they, (Jefferson and Burr,) became rivals for the first office. Under this state of affairs, the Federalists generally voted for Burr, since they were compelled to choose between him and Jefferson, but Burr was not their candidate. He was a Democratic candidate as we have before fully shown, and never acted with the Federal party

Again, the Herald says that we ten times asserted in one article that Burr and Jefferson were the Democratic Republican candidates for President We did not assert it once. We simply said that they were the Democratic candidates in the election of 1800, and we put the name of Burr first because the principal controversy was then about him,—the Herald having asserted that he was the candidate of the Federalists, when in point of fact he was a Democrat, and the Federalists voted for him only because they were compelled to do so. The Herald further asserts that we strenuously denied that these two men were "respectively the Democratic candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency." We denied nothing of the kind, but insisted that such was the case The Herald said that Burr was the Federal candidate, which we denied, and have disproved

That paper must be reduced to desperate straits when it is compelled to have recourse to petty quibbling, such as would be ridiculed in a boys' debating society

The Branch Mint at San Francisco

The Alta of the 24th inst has some valuable statistics showing the operations of the San Francisco Mint for 1866, from which we present the following compilation

The deposits of gold for the year amounted to $17,270,898 30, of silver, $1,077,705 55—making a total of $18,357,603 80.

The gold coinage amounted to $17,362,000 Of this amount, $16,845,000 was in double eagles, $200,000 in eagles, $219,600 in half eagles, and $97,400 in quarter eagles.

The amount of silver coinage was $553,500, of which $527,000 was in half dollars, $7,000 in quarter dollars, $13,500 in dimes and $6,000 in half dimes

Of the gold bullion received at the mint, California is credited with $9,600,317, Idaho with $2,361,025, Oregon with $1,074,527, Montana with $769,450, and Nevada with $57,028 About $3,000,000 comes from sources not particularly specified

Much the greater part of the silver received at the mint came from Nevada. That State is credited with $728,165, and Idaho with $110,984

The total number of pieces coined at the mint for the year was 2,282,517

One of the charges made against General Butler, which will probably be investigated on the trial of his libel suit against "Brick" Pomeroy, is that made some few months since by a New Orleans correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who stated,

That Butler had supplied the Confederate army of General Earl Van Dorn, with large quantities of needed supplies in exchange for cotton He said there were trains loaded with these goods, and that the Confederates were supplied by the Federal commander with the means of slaying Union soldiers The writer of the letter gave his name as John E Watson, and said he was perfectly cognizant of the facts, and gave the name of one of the agents sent by Butler to Van Dorn's headquarters to make a bargain for an exchange of five thousand sacks of salt, shoes, blankets, etc., for cotton He further stated that he had sent a full statement of the affair to the Secretary of War, but no public notice had been taken of the matter

Horace Greeley not long ago wrote a letter to Governor Perry of South Carolina proposing his theory (universal amnesty and impartial suffrage) as a basis for settlement Governor Perry replied indignantly spurning the offer Perhaps Mr. Greeley may be made to understand that a people who fought desperately for four years to destroy the Government, and who now reject even the mildest terms of the conquerors, are unworthy of such leniency, and in fact, have not been conquered enough. After this over generous offer has been spurned, what else would weak kneed Unionists propose?

Judge Busteed, of the United States Court at Huntsville, Alabama has directed the indictment for treason "of persons who defame the Congress of the United States"

LATE EASTERN NEWS

Congressional

WASHINGTON Jan 23 —SENATE —Harris from the Judiciary Committee introduced a bill giving persons confined in the State Penitentiaries under sentence of criminal courts who have conducted themselves so that no charge of misconduct can be sustained against them a deduction of one month in each year from the term of sentence shall be made

Norton introduced a bill amendatory of the Homestead law providing that in case any person in the military or naval service at the date of the passage of said Act was rendered unable by reason of the public enemies or on which he has made settlement has been made the period of five years required by the Act shall be estimated from May 20th 1862 Referred

A bill was passed incorporating the widow of Edward Bradley deceased a former member of Congress to a tract of 50,000 acres of land in Louisiana

The Tax bill coming up Chandler spoke at length on the general subject of tariff and revenue after which the Senate adjourned

HOUSE.—On motion the Committee on Ways and Means was instructed to inquire into the expediency of abolishing in part or in whole the tax on tea and adopting a system of differential duties in favor of American ships that they may have a share in the importation of foreign merchandise

On motion the Judiciary Committee obtained leave to report at any time a bill to establish the eight hour labor system

Mr Morris from the Judiciary Committee reported adversely to the House bill to amend the place, time and manner of election of United States Senators which was tabled

The same Committee reported a bill to limit the time for bringing suits before the Court of Claims providing, that petitions shall be filed within six years from the time claims arise, which was passed

The Sergeant-at-Arms presented at the bar forty four members, who were under arrest for being absent without leave yesterday the House agreed to discharge those who were brought in after the first call and fined others double the usual fees.

Bentwell, from the Judiciary Committee reported back the House bill to amend the Act of 1792, declaring what officers shall act as President of the United States, in case of vacancy in the office of either President or Vice President. It provides that in case of the removal by death, resignation or impeachment of the President or Vice President the President pro tem of the Senate shall act as President of the United States and in case there is no President pro tem of the Senate then the Speaker of the House In case there is no Speaker the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in case there is no Chief Justice, then the last commissioned Justice of the Supreme Court shall be President until a President is elected The Secretary of State, if the Senate and House by concurrent resolution so request and direct, shall forthwith cause a notification of the vacancies to be made to the Executive of each State requiring electors to be chosen within thirty four days preceding the first Tuesday in December The person discharging the duties of President, if Congress is not in session shall convene it immediately The bill was ordered printed and recommitted to the Judiciary Committee

A resolution was adopted with a lengthy preamble that the Committee on Elections inquire if the laws of Maryland were violated in the late election by disloyal rebels voting, and whether any one under his command interfered with said election and threatened to use the military power and if so whether it was upon the requisition of the Governor of Maryland The Committee to have power to send for persons and papers—yeas 104, nays 35

A bill to provide each State library with bound volumes of the reports of the Supreme Court decisions annually as published

The Postoffice appropriation bill was passed, and the House adjourned.

Naval Movements

NEW YORK Jan 23 —The United States steamer Resaca was to leave Fernandina on the 17th of December for the Pacific. The Brooklyn, Pensacola and Wabash were at Hampton Roads on the 9th, the Pensacola being on her way to the Pacific.

Clothing for Fenian Prisoners

TORONTO, Jan 23.—A large invoice of clothing for the Fenian prisoners arrived here a few days ago The person to whom it was addressed refused to pay the duties, and it was held by the Custom authorities until the American Consul paid the charges and gave the clothing to the prisoners

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, January 23 —the Dry Goods market shows little or no improvement in trade. Business is confined to the pressing wants of buyers with no change in prices.

Miscellaneous Items

The people of Jefferson county, West Virginia, have refused to pay the taxes of Governor Boreman's legislature in order to test the legality of their forced separation from the Old Dominion

The plan for the central monument of the Gettysburg National Cemetery has been agreed upon It is to be a white marble shaft, 47 feet high, costing $47,500, with one or more statues by Rogers

A new statute of Missouri provides that all persons who are presented by a grand jury on ex parte grants and shall by a jury trial have been found to be such, shall be hired out to labor, by the sheriff, for six months In St Louis recently six ex parte grants were presented

Careful estimates make the present number of sheep in the United States 30,000,000, and the product 95,000 000—an increase of 7,528,725 sheep in five years last past, against an increase of 748 055 the previous ten years, and of 34 736,037 pounds of wool the last five years, against 7,747,954 pounds the previous ten years

Henry Knause, residing in Hamburg Berks county Pa., set a gun trap in the smoke house for the benefit of some thieves who had stolen his meat He forgot that he had set the trap and was the first to open the door of the smoke-house, when the gun was discharged, and he was almost instantly killed

The Baltimore Commercial says that the prosperity of that city at the present time is "unprecedented" Last year there were 720 building permits issued, including those for renovations and repairs The returns for this year up to the present time show that 1,318 permits have been issued, of which over 1,000 were for new buildings

William Jones of Liberty county, Ga., has made good progress in the tea culture After several unsuccessful attempts in March 1860, he became the possessor of 50 flourishing young plants—These were set out in a loose soil, in rows five feet apart, they grew finely for two years, when the first leaves were picked, and from that time to the present the yield has been from five to six pounds yearly

It is a singular fact that although but one revolutionary pensioner—Samuel Downing, of Edinburgh, Saratoga county N Y —now survives there are no less than 832 widows of revolutionary soldiers still on the pension rolls The greater longevity of women will not account for this discrepancy and the fact that pensioners live long, seems equally in favor of both sexes Of course, the widows of those killed in battle swelled the proportion of female pensioners very largely, but this could not have multiplied it 800 times, hardly 10 times Probably, in consideration that "none but the brave deserve the fair," (not to speak of the pensions,) the surviving heroes were generally and even repeatedly blessed with youthful and blooming brides There are now, in round numbers, 45,000 invalids, and 70,000 widows and relatives on the rolls, at an annual cost of $11, 500,000

The tax levy of the city for the next year will exceed $19,000,000. Its debt is $33,500,000

Frauds upon the revenue are known to have been perpetrated by some of the largest silk and lace importers in this city, by undervalued invoices, etc One importing house was made to pay $50,000 in gold for attempting to evade the law

President Johnson has revoked the exequatur granted to Gerhard Janssen, Consul of Oldenburg to New York, said Janssen having refused to appear in the Supreme Court of New York in an action against him and others, pending his consular privilege

The corporation of this city have brought suit against Charles G Cornell, late Street Commissioner, for several hundred thousand dollars, which he is said to have squandered or appropriated He is charged with fraud corruption and malfeasance in his official capacity

The Berlin correspondent of the World says a dispatch has been received by the American Minister from Mr Seward disapproving of the Minister's conciliatory attitude in reference to Prussia's impressing Americans into its service The dispatch was read to the Government authorities, but no action has been taken

A CAUTION.—The Montana Post of January 2d, publishes the annexed The following is a copy of the most recent effusion of the Vigilance Committee of this place, and to those interested it will well repay perusal Read and reflect In view of the fact that crime has run riot to such an alarming extent in the Territory of Montana (particularly East of the Missouri river) during the past six months and that murders and high handed outrages have been of such frequent occurrence as to excite the indignation of all good citizens it is believed that it is now time that the good work should be recommenced Therefore, this is to notify all whom it may concern that crime must and will be suppressed and to that end all offenders will be summarily dealt with, and published as of old By order of the Vigilance Committee'

The following well illustrates rebel or Democratic toleration

The Memphis Avalanche continues its proscription of Union men in that city, and publishes a black list of business men who were opposed to the rebellion In a recent editorial it says From this time henceforth and forever let every true Southern man, who was an ex rebel or whose son or their father or kin was one—let him avoid the business houses of Wolcott, Smith & Co and W H Moore Henceforth they are famous 'Small Fox or' Tarantula. Either will answer"

STATE ITEMS

The Umatilla Press mentions a rumor that Nelson Parsons, the Grant Creek experiment has been lost in the snow somewhere between Burke and Deep Creek

As soon as the fact of the commutation of Frank Brown's sentence became known a mob organized in the Corporation of the Sheriff the county Jail with Dr C J Tuttle proceeded to the Penitentiary and proposed exhuming and hanging a post mortem example on Brown Tuttle then in command Brown was charged with having murdered The Mob were refused the body We trust the anti capital punishment men will be more careful in examining to such matters in the future

Henry Hartman says the Mountaineer was brought in during the week from Cellilo and placed in the County Hospital where he died This is the person it was known that Mr Hartman was possessed of a considerable money which was supposed to be buried on the neighborhood of his home at Cellilo It was said he left the house for the purpose of getting it Mr Hartman's brother accordingly went to Cellilo and after a thorough search returned without finding any money Yesterday a further search was made and the money place found but it is not believed any large sum Is in a corner of his house was found a place which had recently been dug up and upon digging a proper hook and some old rags were all that could be found—the gold having been taken It is generally thought that Hartman was with about ten thousand dollars the greater part of which was supposed to be buried in his house There is no list as to what the money and probably there never will be

One item of vast importance to this place is the marvellous mildness of the winter It is an absolute fact that this is the first day that the wheels and runners have suspended operation and to-day it is more on account of wind than Winter This winter we have not had enough snow to track a cat and hardly ice enough to bear the weight of one All kinds of stock is fat and beef and butter cheaper than it was last summer this is owing not altogether to the mildness of the winter but also to the fact that stock can now be kept without the cost of a guard to keep off the Indians

The Idaho Statesman has the following in regard to the Chico route

We call attention of members of Congress and the post office department to the fact that the mail route from Chico to this place is a humbug in every sense of the word It has dwindled down from an infernal stage line which made a few trips in schedule time when its stock was fresh to a one-horse stock arrangement which ourselves of consequence at all, and that without reference to time. The mails have been sent out from Chico on the road and have been accumulating for months on the route We understand that some government teams are brought in several loads last week to which fact we are indebted for half a bushel of California ox chains of old dates It is reported that there are large amounts still behind When they will arrive no one knows probably when some bull team hauls them along

REIGN OF THE RECONSTRUCTED.—A Raleigh dispatch of the 20th ult says

Colonel Bamford, commanding the United States forces in this State, interfered and prevented the Sheriff from inflicting corporeal punishment on a negro this morning Judge Daniel D Fowler ordered the indictment of all the military officers concerned in the transaction The negro was returned after receiving eight lashes, and the soldiers left the ground Indictments will be issued against the officers, and the negro will be whipped to-morrow Judge Fowler has called on the Governor to carry out the laws of the State

Without any desire to puff we think it but an act of justice to let the public know that KOHN & FISHEL'S (No. 111 Front street) is the cheapest clothing house in the State

NEW ARRANGEMENT.—THEOLD BUCHTEL & CARDWELL PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY 89 First Street has passed into the hands of JOSEPH BUCHTEL Proprietor and Operator, who, having just returned from San Francisco, with ALL THE LATE IMPROVEMENTS is prepared to take every style of picture known to the art

Money Market.

San Francisco Legal Tender rates 74
New York Gold Quotations 1¼@1½

THE SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.—For the benefit of our readers generally and dealers with San Francisco, in particular, who do not get the San Francisco papers we make the following quotations from the Alta's commercial and financial report of Jan 24th

"Money continues to be abundant and is more easy by bid at reducing rates Both the increased supply and the greater activity of circulation tend to give the appearance of great abundance A few weeks of fine weather would cause a great change in this respect The quota tions of sterling come through lower from New York under the influence of the large supply of exchange bills The market for produce here has not of anged much in the past week The transpo sation has been taken up at full figures to carry off the wheat and flour to England and the Atlantic States and the stock in the port is somewhat on the decline A good deal of wheat has been engaged for delivery in the interior deliverable here and this has gone on board to complete cargoes The flour—There is a fair demand both for extra and superfine grades, for export, with moderate transactions within the range of our quotations which are as follows for round lots: Grits baker's in bbls at $5 50@5 62½ do in bf sks at $5 00@5 25 extra family, both city and country, in bf sks at $5 do in qr sks at $5 12½ superfine in bf sks at $4 25 and in qr sks at $5 00@5 25, fine in bf sks $4 and qr sks $4 25 ₱ bbl Oregon extra in qr sks $4 75@4 85 ₱ bbl Wood, in very light demand at prices indicating nothing in former ruling rates A lot of 5,000 lbs extra quality for local consumption, and on terms withheld Barley—Nothing wanted for good to choice American shipping, and 85@90c ₱ lb for burry descriptions. Bacon at 15@15½c ₱ lb Hams at 16@17c ₱ lb Beef smoked offic, and do shoulders at 14c ₱ lb California mess at $20@22 ₱ bbl Dairy produce the only alteration to note with respect to prices is a further decline in butter and an advance of 5c ₱ dozen for eggs The market is well supplied with all descriptions, excepting however Clear Lake Cheese, of which the market is bare For round lots the following prices are obtainable Butter, choice to prime roll at 30@35c and packed at 25@27½c ₱ lb. Cheese in good supply and quotable at 12½@13c ₱ lb. No Clear Lake dairies in first hands. Lard, in 10-lb tins at 14½@15c ₱ lb Eggs at 35 per dozen * * * By the arrival of the P M S S Co's steamer Montana we have New York files to the 1st inst Our commercial letter will be found to be of interest. There were sales of Californias firm in Philadelphia at $1@1 10 ₱ bbl, coin, and gold being then 134, to $123¼ gold, which left a handsome profit."

BE AS YE TO BE APPRECIATED.—Of late the press of San Francisco has begun to manifest a disposition to acknowledge that there is such a place as Oregon, and that there are productions of this State worthy of mention The Times, which has always the best make up of Oregon news, in its issue of January 23d, thus notices the pioneer woolen mills of Oregon "The Willamette Woolen Mills, located at Salem, Oregon, are the largest woolen mills on the coast, having been established as early as 1856. They run 4 sets of cards 7 spinning jacks, 25 looms, broad and narrow, on which they weave Cassimeres, Tweed, Blankets, etc, manufacturing from 1600 to 1200 yards daily, of different varieties. They consumed nearly 500 000 lbs of wool during the year 1866, at an average cost of 22c ₱ lb, or about $110,000 This establishment employs 60 hands, male and female, at a cost of $60,000 ₱ annum The lowest work by the yard, and 10 hours a day, averaging $2 per month. The trade is now supplied with several new and tasty styles of Oregon manufactured woolen cloths for gentlemen's business suits. It has been with great difficulty that American manufacturers, and especially those upon the Pacific coast, have been able to compete with the foreign trade in this class of goods, late in years they have, however, very materially reduced expenses of manufacture, and probably to a great degree has ruled among this class of our home producers. The Woolen fabrics forwarded to the World's Exposition at Paris, from this coast will do us ample justice, and will give an enviable fame to the various manufactures Woolen goods of Salem manufacture, are quoted in that market at the following rates Cloths $1 25@$1 50, Flannels 62½@75c, Blankets, $8@$11

THE HOUSE GOLD DUST OPERATOR.—The Mountaineer of Jan. 25th, has the following notice of Murphy, of whose arrest at the Dalles, mention appeared in the Oregonian early last week "The renowned Capt "Murphy, who is to be some time figured in Idaho in connection with the manufacture of bogus gold dust, found his way to this city during the week, and commenced the practice of his profession. On Tuesday evening, he passed some of his dust at the bar of Madam de Bilk, on Main street, (which no doubt was as good as the tangle-foot he received for it) but she, being of a suspicious turn of mind, wended her way to Wells, Fargo & Co., where the dust was pronounced bogus by Mr. A W Buchanan On being accosted by the Bilk with passing bogus gold dust, the "gallant Captain" heard of her not to get him into trouble, and the result was a bill of sale in pledge for the amount By this time, however, Sheriff Ferguson and Sheriff Maddox of Umatilla county—who had come down on the boat with Murphy—were on his track, and they succeeded in capturing him at the Aforesaid Bilk's dead fall He was taken before Justice Calloway, who, after an examination committed him to jail for trial at the April term of the Circuit Court The prosecution was conducted by Mr Hyndman, assisted by Mr. Dow, of the Umatilla. Press. No dust was found on his person, although the evidence went to show that he had two loads of the bogus stuff when he paid for his liquor at the dead fall The "Captain" has evidently got himself into closer quarters than those from which he escaped at Idaho."

THE CROSSING OF FRONT STREET.—As we predicted, the street at the ravine near the old penitentiary, has gone in, or rather, gone out. The flood did its work very thoroughly, breaking through and sweeping away the filling to nearly the original depth of the ravine. The breadth of the crevasse is not less than twenty or twenty five feet. Passage of teams is totally impossible and a pedestrian would be venturesome who should undertake to "coon" across on the narrow plank laid from one crumbling wall to the other The only practicable crossing on foot is some distance above the pond. During yesterday the walls of the crevasse were continually caving down and being shoved through the sewers to the flats below The filling of the same ravine on Fourth street was said to be undergoing yesterday, the same process at that of Front on Monday night. Should this crossing be also destroyed, all communication, by teams, with the south and of the city will be cut off. In view of this probable state of things, the people who reside south of the ravine are very anxious that the city authorities take immediate measures for providing the means of crossing on Front street. The city will have the filling of the crevasse to do, and it should not be delayed a day beyond the time necessary for accomplishing it

THE RIVER.—A prominent citizen furnishes us the following, to which we cheerfully give place, with the single remark that the Street Commissioner has done and is doing what he can, with the limited authority and appropriations given him, for the good condition of the streets.

"EDS. OREGONIAN.—Your notice in the issue of the 21st, of the filthy condition of our streets is well received. You close by asking, "can not something be done?" Yes, with ease, and how? by putting ordinance 302 in force. This ordinance was passed February 21, 1866, and is therefore almost as good as new And if it were put on at once our city would be so much more attractive that our worthy Mayor might well point to it as a check to that waning prosperity of our city pointed out so faithfully in one of his late messages We have to see the simple provisions of the ordinance published, that all may see where the fault lies If the Street Commissioner will not do his duty, then it is to be hoped that his superior—acting under Sec 40 Chapt. VI of the Charter—will insure the cleaning of our streets once a week."

HIGH WATER.—The river continued yesterday to rise rapidly—a part of the day, at the rate of three or four inches per hour. It reached a point at an early hour, higher than any previous rise of the water The lower wharf at the foot of Morrison street was about two feet under at 4 o'clock. Very little of Couch & Flander's lower wharf was above water, their lower ware-room and office being flooded. The Pacific was discharging on the upper floor. The O. S. N. Co's lower floor is under water. Several merchants on the river side of Front street were engaged throughout the day in clearing goods out of their basements Considerable drift was running and every indication favored a further rise of considerable extent There are many opportunities for damage along the river front, if owners of property are not vigilant.

A SUIT IN PROSPECT.—We heard it stated, yesterday, that the McAdamized Road Company will hold the city responsible for the damage to their road by the flood at the fall-house ravine. They claim that the city should have constructed a sufficient culvert extending from the upper side of the street filling, to connect with the Company's culvert, and that having neglected so ordinary a precaution, the city has become responsible for the damage which resulted from its gross neglect This of course, is at present only rumor or at most founded on remarks of individual stockholders in the road It is not very improbable, however that the company will seek to protect its interests from injury occasioned by the city's failure to provide against a contingency liable to occur any month in the winter

PAVING.—The Street Commissioner was yesterday engaged in constructing a temporary bridge over the ravine on Front street The place had been impassable for teams for some days and the work of the Commissioner will be appreciated by those who are doing business South of Jefferson street The contractor, though not obliged by his contract to keep a bridge way across the ravine, has for so most of the time at some trouble and expense, since he commenced filling Twice he has received damage by the floods from the streets and the last time, the temporary bridge was undermined so as to be unsafe of passage The contractor naturally enough felt that he could not afford to reconstruct it and hence the Street Commissioner took hold of the job

FIRE WARE POINT.—F G Schwatka recently appointed a Cadet at West Point is in this city awaiting the sailing of the Pacific He is going on in company with Mr Mallory, who is expected here in time to take passage by the Pacific. The present Cadet is Medorem Crawford Jr. the son of Collector Crawford, of this city His term of four years will expire in June next, when he will graduate and be succeeded by Schwatka The latter is a very quiet, unassuming young man of 17 years but possessed of an uncommonly good mind and studious habits There is little danger but that he will represent Oregon creditably at the national military school

REVIVAL MEETINGS.—A protracted series of evening meetings are being held at the M. E. Church the Congregational and the Presbyterian Churches as follows At the M. E. Church preaching every evening except Saturday, at 7 o'clock at the Congregational Church preaching every Wednesday and Friday evening at 7 o clock at the Presbyterian Church, preaching, on Tuesday and Friday evenings at the same hour Some two or three persons have united with the M E Church within a few days and a number of accessions have occurred to the other Churches.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The only case in this court yesterday was that of S B Vance against whom the prosecuting witness Charles Pryor—did not see fit to appear Vance was discharged From what we learn the latter was justified in what he did if any assault except in actual self-defence from bodily harm, can be considered justifiable.

ACCIDENT AT OREGON CITY.—A man employed about the warehouse at Oregon City whose name we could not learn accidentally fell yesterday while moving a gang plank and received rather a severe shock Our informant says he fell about twelve or fourteen feet and is said to be much hurt, though he did not learn how seriously

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per Alert Jan 26th 300 bbls potatoes 10 bbls [illegible] 50 cases mules 4 colts qr sl a flour 4 boxes [illegible] 7 boxes lard 10 hogs 1 box pipes 1 box [illegible] 6 kegs 45 boxes apples 1 roll skins 1 sack wool and 2 sacks hides

NOON DAY PRAYER MEETING.—The noon day prayer meeting as heretofore reported in the Baptist Church have been changed to the rooms of the Presbyterian Church until further notice

CIRCUIT COURT.—The time of this court was mostly occupied yesterday in hearing motions making up issues etc No case was disposed of finally

TO SAIL.—The Federaler will sail for Victoria this evening at 6 o clock. The Pacific will sail for San Francisco on Thursday at 2 o clock P M

NO MAILS.—The steamer brought no mails from the South yesterday, bound Oregon City The stage was delayed, probably, by high water

THE STEAMER ALICE.—The steamer for Salem succeeded in passing Rock Island yesterday

STOPPED AND NOT STOPPED.—The rain stopped falling yesterday but Barman Bros have not stopped selling, clothing and gentlemen a furnishing goods at liberal prices

The share holders of the Union Gold and Silver Mining Company in Santiam District who wish to make arrangements for the sale of their stock are requested to meet at the store of J L Parrish & Co. this evening, at seven o'clock

WANTED.—Immediately, a first rate boot maker good wages given Apply to Grabenheim & Cohen

MAXIMILIAN CONCLUDES TO STAY.—The following proclamation was issued by Maximilian and promulgated in the City of Mexico on the 5th.

ORIZABA, December 1, 1866

MEXICANS.—Circumstances of great magnitude, relating to the welfare of our country, and which increase in strength by our domestic difficulties, have produced in our mind the conviction that we ought to retain the power confined to us Our ministers, by us convened, have given as their opinion that the welfare of Mexico still requires our presence at the head of affairs, and we have considered it our duty to accede to their request, announcing at the same time our intentions to convoke a National Congress, on the most ample and liberal basis, where all political parties can participate, and this Congress shall decide whether the Empire shall continue in future, and in case of assent, shall assist in framing the fundamental laws to consolidate the public institutions of the country To obtain this result, our counselors are at present engaged in devising the measures necessary means, and at the same time arranging matters in such a manner that all parties may assist in an arrangement on that basis

In the meantime, Mexicans, counting upon you all, without excluding any political class, we shall continue the work of regeneration with courage and constancy, having been placed in charge of your countrymen MAXIMILIAN.

THE NEW ORLEANS RIOT—STATEMENT OF MAYOR MONROE.—A dispatch from New Orleans of December 30th, says Mayor Monroe, after giving evidence before the Congressional Committee regarding the riot, stated that at the outbreak of the war there was in his opinion but one Union man in New Orleans This was Dr Dostie, who left the city under Jeff Davis' proclamation He also stated that the first secession speeches he had heard were made by Governor Hahn and Kug Cutler, and that the most prominent States Rights man, and a leading spirit of the Southern Rights Association, was W R Fisher These men are now the extreme Union men of the Brownlow clique

Jacob Barker testified that in the event of a war with a foreign Power the people of the South would stand by the Government, and that the people were loyal and anxious for peace In regard to the riot, he said that the people had nothing to do with it, that they felt very indignant at the proposition of reviving an extinct Convention for the purpose of superceding the Government in which they had acquiesced and under which they were living quietly, that the people, however, had all agreed to submit the matter to the decision of the Courts, and believed that the proper steps had been taken with that view when the mob came upon them like a storm

PAYING THE NATIONAL DEBT.—The London Spectator, in alluding to the prospect of paying our National debt ere long, remarks

"It will be the greatest deed Democracy has ever done, the one which will come most clearly home to property holders, which will most rapidly dissipate the idea that Democracy is distinguished by 'an ignorant impatience of taxation,' or by an indisposition to pay up honorable claims No Despotism will be able to show such a financial account, no Constitutional Monarchy a better one and successful finance tells heavily with enlightened mankind. The tide of immigration will set in with double rapidity, and the last remaining deterrant to British North America will have been removed Meanwhile, whether the dream is fulfilled or not, America, so long as she raises this surplus, possesses a force of which it is difficult to estimate the extent, can, for example, spend without a loan as much as the whole outlay of Great Britain upon her army and navy, can waste every year without increasing her taxes as much as the loan with which Napoleon paid for his Italian campaign"

TALK WITH PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—A dispatch dated Washington, December 22d, says

Representative Eggleston of Ohio had a long interview with the President to day He spent more than an hour in conversation with him upon general matters, reconstruction among the rest After talking of the result of the late elections Eggleston asked the President if he did not think it would have been better for him to have surrendered his views and opinions in favor of the popular verdict in October and November, and not to have pursued his policy in his last message The President replied to this that he did not think he had shown any further opposition to the popular verdict, than merely to express his opinions to Congress, in what he thought would best conduce to the welfare of the country. He thought the Radical party had made a great mistake in spending so much time as they did last season, before declaring upon what terms they would agree to readmit the Southern States, and that great damage to the public welfare had been the result of this delay.

THE MYSTERIOUS ROBBERY OF GOV LYON.—An investigation into the circumstances of the alleged loss of some $40,000 on the New York recently, by Caleb Lyon, Governor of Idaho, will take place in Washington immediately Gov Lyon asserts that the lost money belongs to Government that he was bringing it here to deliver to the Secretary of the Treasury, as balance due from him to the United States, Why he should have carried the funds about his person, and especially why he should have taken the belt containing the money from his person in the cars, as he says he did, requires explanation.

A HARD HIT.—Sheridan was one day much annoyed by a fellow member of the House of Commons, who kept crying out every few minutes, "Hear, hear" During the debate he took occasion to describe a political contemporary that wished to play rogue, but who only had sense enough to act fool. "Where," exclaimed he with great emphasis, "where shall we find a more knavish fool or foolish knave than he?" "Hear, hear," was shouted by the troublesome member Sheridan turned around, and thanking him for his prompt information, sat down, amid a general roar of laughter

THE STORM IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA.—A Yreka dispatch of the 23d inst, gives the following

It has been raining and snowing for the last five days and it still continues to pour down but little snow remains even on the highest mountains We have no mail communication from the North or South The small streams have assumed the dimensions of roaring torrents, the mountain gorges are pouring floods upon the valleys Everything is afloat and the windows of Heaven are still open

POSTOFFICES IN THE SOUTH.—The Postmaster General has decided to discontinue all postoffices in the Southern States where the late Postmasters failed to make a return of money and stamps in their hands at the beginning of the war Very few of the old offices in the Southern States have thus far been reopened, and except where special applications are made no more will be for some time to come 136 offices in North Carolina were thus officially designated as discontinued Out of 800 postoffices in North Carolina only 300 have thus far been reopened

Intellectual distinction and eminence seldom pass into the second, and rarely into the third generation The Adamses constitute almost the sole exception in this country. We have just now another in the Frelinghuysens of New Jersey The one now in the United States Senate was preceded by his grandfather and father In business the Astors are equally distinguished

Senator Nye's Speech

The following is the speech delivered by Senator James W Nye, before the Joint Convention on the occasion of his re-election to the United States Senate by the Legislature of Nevada

Mr. President of a Senate and House of Assembly of the State of Nevada: I say that I thank you for this second endorsement and second elevation to the place which by your kindness I am permitted to fill I could be but to give a fair echo to the feelings of my heart

I am not unaware that the circle through which we have just passed has been marked with some degree of bitterness But I call you to witness that I have indulged in no such thing myself I sincerely hope a time may come when officers may be elected without having to swim literally in an ocean of obloquy The importance of the position, gentlemen, I think I appreciate better than I did before It is no holiday life It is a life of labor anxiety perplexity and responsibility For two years I have stood in that body and have taken such positions upon the several questions that have arisen as my own judgment and my own heart dictated To me it was a new lesson For eighteen long years I had schooled myself in that direction and looking forward for events that have subsequently occurred

I congratulate you as members of this great confederacy, that the interests of this great public are safe in the hands to which it is now committed No treachery from within or invasion from without can shake the foundation upon which this republic stands It is based upon the eternal principles of exact justice an I right to all men, and no other form of government can long stand With the beaming intelligence of this century and of this day, the world have resolved, whatever their form of government may be now, to stand as you stand, clothed in the habiliments of citizens and having a right to a voice in their affairs

My course is already marked out From it I shall not deviate From it I would not deviate for all the votes that Nevada could cast The course that I have pursued is the course which I think the judgment of this State has indorsed Had it not been, Mr President for that fact, I should have felt no anxiety as to the result of your deliberations, and I may be permitted to say that I felt far more interest for the verdict that this State should render upon the great issue of the day than I could possibly feel for any personal aggrandizement or desire to obtain it I shall go, representatives of the State of Nevada, I shall start to morrow, or the next day, for the place where your kindness has consigned me, and with one remark more I have done

I have heard it said Mr President frequently, that, if I was elected, I should never come back I do not know that I shall The dangers of the sea are before me—the uncertainty of life but if alive I shall come. All I have in the world is in the State of Nevada I said in my inaugural, when I arrived and took the place of Governor, that I had sundered my connection with associations of my life, long dear to me, in the East and had taken up my abode in the far West Here I expect to live, and here I expect to die Thanking you kindly for this second endorsement, I shall have a double incentive to perform more faithfully and more vigilantly the duties to which you have assigned me

BROWNLOW ON THE SOUTHERN STATE GOVERNMENTS.—Brownlow's organ says it is absurd to feel bad because the Southern States don t ratify the Constitutional Amendment, and adds

There is no State government in the South outside of this State, to ratify the Amendment It is nonsense to say that the Legislatures of Mississippi, Alabama and other Southern States should ratify the Amendment, when it is perfectly clear that there is not a Legislature in all those States possessed of the least legal power whatever These so called Legislatures are simply assemblies of Andrew Johnson understrappers * * * We protest earnestly against accepting the ratification from such lawless gatherings as imparting the slightest validity to the Amendment, or to any law whatever Congress will do the Union men of the South a grievous injury if it shall admit the Congressional delegations from the rebel States on such a ratification

The Palatine.

Leagues north, as fly the gull and auk,
Point Judith watches with eyes of hawk
Leagues south, thy beacon flames, Montauk!

Lonely and wind shorn, wood forsaken,
With never a tree nor Spring to waken,
For tryst of lovers or farewells taken,

Circled by waters that never freeze,
Beaten by billow and swept by breeze,
Lieth the island of Manisees,

Set at the mouth of the Sound to hold
The coast lights up on its barren old
Yellow with moss and sea fog mould

Dreary the land when gust and sleet
At its doors and windows howl and beat,
And Winter laughs at fires of peat!

But in Summer time, when pool and pond,
Held in the laps of valleys fond,
Are blue as the glimpse of sea beyond,

When the hills are sweet with the brier-rose,
And hid in the warm, soft dells unclose
Flowers the mainland rarely knows,

When the boats to their morning fishing go,
And, hold to the wind and slapping low,
Whitening and darkening the small sails show—

Then is that lovely Island fair
And the pale health seeker findeth there
The wished life in its pleasant air.

No greener valleys tho sun invite
On smoother beaches no sea-birds light,
No blue waves shatter foam more white!

There, circling over their narrow range,
Quaint tradition an l legend strange
Live on unchallenged and know no change

Old wives spinning their webs of tow
Or rocking wierdly to and fro
In and out of the past's dull glow,

And old men mending their nets of twine,
Talk together of dream and sign,
Talk of the lost ship Palatine—

The ship that a hundred years before,
Freighted deep with its goodly store,
In the gales of the equinox went ashore.

The sager islanders one by one
Counted the shots of her signal gun,
And heard the crash when she drove right on!

Into the teeth of death she sped;
Clasp'd God forgive her hands that fed
The false lights over the rocky head!)

Oh, men and brothers, what sights were there!
Whites, up-turned faces, hands stretched in prayer!
Where waves had pity, could ye not spare?

Down swooped the wreckers, like birds of prey,
Tearing the heart of the ship away,
And the dead had never a word to say

And then, with ghastly shimmer and shine,
Over the rocks and the seething brine,
They burned the wreck of the Palatine!

In their cruel hearts, as they homeward sped,
"The sea and the rocks are dumb," they said,
"There will be no reckoning with the dead."

But the year went round, and when once more
Along their foam-white curves of shore
They heard the line-storm rave and roar,

Behold! again, with shimmer and shine,
Over the rocks and the soothing brine,
The flaming wreck of the Palatine!

So haply in fitter words than mine,
Mending their nets on their patient
They tell the legend of Manisees,

Nor looks nor tones a doubt betray;
"It is known to us all"—they quietly say—
"We, too, have seen it in our day."

Is there, then, no death for a word once spoken?
Was never a deed but left its token
Written on tables never broken?

Do the elements subtile reflections give?
Do pictures of all the ages live
On Nature's infinite negative,

Whence, half in sport, in malice half,
She shows at times, with shudder or laugh,
Phantom and shadow in photograph?

For still, on many a moonless night,
From Kingston Head and Montauk light
The spectre kindles and burns in sight.

Now low and dim, now clear and lighted,
Leaps up the terrible ghost of fire,
Then, slowly sinking, the flames expire.

And the wise sound skippers, though skies be fine,
Reef their sails when they see the sign
Of the flaming ghost of the Palatine!

THE COLLIERY DISASTERS IN ENGLAND.

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE EXPLOSIONS IN YORKSHIRE AND STAFFORDSHIRE—450 LIVES LOST.

[From the N. Y. Evening Post of Dec. 29th.]

The English mails received by the Americanas bring full accounts of the horrible explosions at the Oaks and Talk-o'-the-Hill collieries in Yorkshire and Staffordshire. The latter occurred 22 hours after the Yorkshire disaster. The total number of lives lost was about 450.

Cable dispatches, a few days ago, gave an outline of these terrible accidents, but the following details, gathered from the English papers, show that the worst was not told:

THE OAKS COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

The Oaks colliery explosion occurred on Wednesday, Dec 12th, about 1 P. M. This colliery is about a mile and a half from Barnsley, near Hoyle Mill, and is the property of R. Micklethwaith, who has leased it to Firth, Barber & Co. Its workings were probably of greater extent than those of any other colliery in the South Yorkshire district, and the number of hands employed was little short of four hundred and fifty. The ramifications underground extended over a large area, and the most distant points of the colliery were over three miles from each other.

So far as could be ascertained, it is believed that three-hundred and twenty-four persons went into the pit at six o'clock on Wednesday morning and they were subsequently followed by at least six more; there is strong reason for believing that the number was over six, and that in round numbers nearly three hundred and fifty men and boys were in the pit when the accident happened. Nearly all were killed.

THE EXPLOSION.

The first intimation of the disaster was at twenty minutes past one o'clock in the afternoon, when the people engaged about the pit mouth observed a slight tremulous motion of the earth, followed by a dull, heavy explosion, that could be heard more than a mile off. Dense columns of smoke and dust shot into the air from each of the shafts, and in a few seconds the pit bank was wrapped in a thick black cloud, that hung like a funeral pall over the ill-fated spot. The shock of the explosion startled the people living in the neighborhood, and a rush was made to the pit bank. Frantic women, terrified children, and colliers from adjoining works eagerly crowded around the place to ascertain the cause and results, and the anxiety and despair depicted by that motley throng was a scene that no pen can describe. On recovering from the first shock of alarm, the viewers and under-viewers, several of whom had fortunately come to the surface a few minutes before the occurrence, inspected the gear and machinery of the down east shafts, and information of the accident was simultaneously forwarded to C. Drymond, the managing partner, and to Superintendent Greenhalgh, of Barnsley, who shortly arrived with a number of policemen.

BEGINNING THE SEARCH.

As soon as possible a party of men cautiously descended, and at the bottom of the shaft found about eighteen men and boys much affected by the after damp and many of them seriously burned. They were at once sent to the surface. A search was made for others of the living, and as it was also important to learn whether the coal had caught fire, Drymond and a party of viewers and colliery managers from adjoining works proceeded to make an examination of the pit. They penetrated about five hundred or seven hundred yards to the bottom of the up east shaft. The air was loaded with noxious gas to such an extent that one of the party was nearly overpowered by it. It was found that an immense amount of damage had been caused to the sides and roof of the workings, that the air ways were literally blown to pieces, and that not a living man was to be found in the pit. Of dead they counted many. Within the space of fifty yards they counted no fewer than thirty eight, and at every few paces the number was increased. It was also found that the stable was destroyed and about eighteen or twenty horses killed. Some of the party returned to the surface and called for more volunteers to repair to the air ways and get out the dead. Plenty of willing hands joined heartily in the dangerous task, and in the course of the day and evening more than one hundred men and boys were thus employed.

SEARCHERS KILLED.

One exploring party, when about seven hundred yards from the shaft, felt the air sucking and made all haste out and saved their lives, but an other party, consisting of David Stewart, Wm Sugden, Christopher Siddons, Thomas Nadin, Wm. Stephenson, workmen, and Jeffcock, mining engineer, lost their lives.

SECOND EXPLOSION.

A second explosion took place on Thursday morning, while the parties in charge were in the act of drawing out the dead consequent upon the previous explosion. The report was like that of a cannon. The news of this second disaster spread like lightning, and hundreds of the friends and relatives of the poor creatures in the pit were quickly on the spot. The scene of Wednesday was again renewed. The poor women could be met on the colliery fainting with excessive grief, while others were tearing their hair, apparently wild with excitement. The scene in the neighborhood of the colliery was truly heart-rending.

THIRD EXPLOSION.

At nine A. M. the pit exploded again, killing all the volunteers who were searching for the dead. Happily, the foulness of the pit had been so great previously that about ten minutes to nine all the searchers to the number of sixteen, came to the bank. When they did so they were accused of cowardice by the men who were waiting to descend, and these latter at once went down to continue the search. They had not been in the pit many minutes when it fired, the crash of the explosion being distinctly heard at places nearly a mile distant.

THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO LIVES LOST.

A fact corroborating previous statements as to the number of men in the pit at the time of the explosion came to light during the investigations, and strengthens the assertions as to the loss of human life. A Manchester paper says: "We are informed on credible authority, that four hundred and thirty lamps had been issued on Wednesday morning, and only two or three had been returned, the fearful amount of the loss of life is not likely to have been overstated."

The numbers will be, at the lowest estimate, 350 in the pit when the accident happened. 18 rescued alive, of whom 12 since have died, and 28 volunteers killed, making a total of 352 killed.

CAUSE OF THE EXPLOSION.

The Manchester Guardian says. "As to the cause of the explosion little is known, practically it is a mere surmise. The pit was in the hands of a rich proprietary, who were certainly not parsimonious in their management. The mine made a large quantity of gas, which was collected in various parts of the pit and conducted in pipes to the engine plane, which was thus artificially lighted. In the workings the men used safety lamps. It is said that when the accident happened a number of colliers were driving a headway toward some old levels charged with foul air, and a supposition prevails that having tapped this air, it rushed to the engine plane, and there exploded, just as in the case of the recent accident at Dukinfield. Another theory is that the mine may have been fired by the incautious use of the safety lamps or the lighting of a match."

INCIDENTS.

Some of the escapes of the miners were very remarkable. One man named Bates was hewing coal in some new works, about a mile and a half from the shafts. He became aware of the explosion by a sudden rush of air, which threw him down and rendered him insensible. On recovering himself he felt that he was being dawnpped in the suffocating choke-damp, and with a desperate effort he struggled toward the shafts. The road were so broken that he could hardly find his way, and after climbing over heaps of debris he at last fell helpless and gave himself up for lost. Some friendly hand raised him and once more he staggered on toward the shaft, where he at last arrived, and was safely taken to the surface.

Another man was knocked down senseless, and one of the exploring parties afterwards found him grasping in his arms the body of a dead cat. Oth ers brought to the surface alive experienced singularly narrow escapes from falling debris and after-damp. To avoid the latter many fell on their faces, stuffed their clothing in their mouths and crawled along the level.

One of the most affecting scenes which the searchers came upon was the discovery of more than twenty men nearly the whole of whom were locked in each others' arms. They had faced death together, and had carried the friendship of life to the very threshhold of the grave. Others had evidently been swept away while taking leave of each other, and in the terror and confusion of the moment others had still remembered to appeal to the mercies of their God. Not a few were thus found in the attitude of prayer.

A more awful spectacle than that presented to the searchers on Wednesday night could hardly be found, even on a battle ground. Horses, coal-tubs, and in some cases men and lads, were heaped together in one confused mass, and some of the bodies were so much disfigured, more by dirt than mutilation, that their friends could hardly recognize them, some had to be identified by a button, or a shoe, or some part of their tattered garments.

Samuel Brown, of Barnsley, states that when the first explosion took place during the search for which he had volunteered, he was caught by the after-blast, and became unconscious for some time. After he revived and wandered about the north incline, falling over mangled corpses in the road, and found his way to the pit mouth, where he pulled the signal bell. He thinks there was no other living being in the pit, for after his consciousness returned, he never heard any voice or moaning, or any other indication of life.

THE TALK-O'-THE HILL COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

The explosion in the Talk-o' the Hill Colliery, in Staffordshire, occurred at 11 A. M., on Thursday, December 13th, about twenty-four hours after the disaster at Barnsley. Upwards of one hundred lives were lost by this explosion. The colliery is situated in the parish of Talke, about a mile from the Harecastle Station, it belongs to the North Staffordshire Coal and Iron Company, Limited, and has been worked about eighteen months. The coal which it produces is known as Barnbury coal. From the mouth of the shafts—two in number—to the bottom of the pit is a depth of 30 yards, and the workings extend about 500 yards in various directions. The number of men and boys employed was about 150.

THE EXPLOSION.

The miners descended the pit at five o'clock in the morning, and engaged in their hazardous occupation till eleven o'clock. About that hour a smothered report was heard by those standing on the pit bank, flames rushing furiously from the mouth of the pit, and in an instant after the surface of the country for a great extent on its sides were covered with thick soot. The shock caused by the explosion was felt at the distance of half a mile. G. Johnson, the Company Manager, got the pit bank cleared as soon as possible, and the cages were lowered into the mine. In a short time about fifty terrified men and lads were brought to the surface by way of No 2 shaft. The efforts of No. 1 shaft were not successful, several men who were raised at that point, being more or less burned.

THE DEAD.

The exploration rendered the searchers almost unconscious, and, as each one came to the surface, every means were taken to revive him. Some of them remained for a long time insensible, while others, on whom brandy and chloroform had a more salutary effect, soon came around and were ready for another descent. The bodies brought up from time to time were examined by the surgeons and were, with few exceptions, pronounced dead. The fatal word was sadly heard by the men at the pit bank. At this time women and children had been prohibited from approaching the shaft, and thus many painful demonstrations were prevented.

The scene in the pit is described as frightful. Bodies and limbs lay apart, and several headless trunks were sent up. The total number found in an injured state, up to eight o'clock at night was thirteen. The dead bodies numbered forty three—after damp was the cause of death. Deducting the uninjured, the burned and the dead, there must have remained in the pit between forty and fifty men, and, as none of those brought up towards the end of the day were alive, it is but reasonable to suppose that these, too, perished.

CAUSE OF THE DISASTER.

The force of the explosion, as evidenced by the appearance of the pit's workings, must have been intense, the brattieing on all sides having been blown away, the plant scattered in all directions, and the roadways, for the most part, consequently blocked up. Nothing was perceived by the miners prior to the accident to cause them to suspect the approach of danger, the explosion, it is said, coming on them with all the suddenness of a gunshot. Nor can any cause be yet fixed upon, except what may be inferred from the fact that on the persons of several of the deceased, duplicate lamp keys were found. The possession of these keys is in opposition to the orders contained in the Mines Regulation Act, which requires that the locking and unlocking of the safety lamps shall be solely performed by appointed officers. The seam which was being worked was called the Bunbury seam. The coal was very gaseous, and the exercise of the utmost care was enjoined on the workmen. Any such departure from rule as that suggested must therefore have been doubly culpable. But beyond the finding of the duplicate keys, there is nothing to substantiate the supposition, most of the lamps having been shivered into the minutest atoms. The safety lamps in use were the 'Clanny and Mill's lamps.

This is the first explosion at this colliery, although the mine is described as of a very gassy character. All the most recent methods of ventilation were in use and the cause of the explosion is not at present known.

INCIDENTS.

Isaac Bylton, a collier at the Talk o' the Hill pit, said that about 11 P. M. he felt a wind blowing through the mine. He concluded that something had happened, and he did his best to leave. On his way to the bottom of the shaft he came across a man who had fallen. He took him in hand for some distance, but eventually was obliged to leave him. Witness got to the foot of the shaft, but he and others could not, at first, get the rope lowered. In a short time the cage was let down and he and others were extricated. As soon as he got above the ground he ran home. (Wynne, the Government Inspector of Mines for the district, explained that it was usual in such cases for those who were saved to make home as quickly as they could, in order to set at rest the minds of their families.)

Some of the bereaved are in a most painful plight. A widow, named Poole, has lost two sons who were her only support. Another woman has lost her husband, son, and adopted child, and is left with four young girls. Several families have been deprived of father and son. In another case, six young children named Knowles will see mother died only four weeks ago, have now become orphans. In one row of four houses every window blind is drawn down.

The colliery was worked day and night by two shifts of men. Had the explosion occurred a little more than half an hour later most of the colliers would have been away at dinner, and thus the loss of life would have been considerably less. As it is, the number killed, it is thought, will be under eighty, for of those believed on Thursday night to be still underground many, it appears, contrived to escape by No 2 shaft. The number of horses buried was fourteen.

PREVIOUS DISASTERS.

The following is a list of the principal colliery disasters that have occurred in Yorkshire:

		Killed
1797	April 10th, Rothwell Haigh, Leeds	13
1580	June 28th, East Ardsley, near Wakefield	10
1620	January 12th, Gosforth, coal mine at Middleton, near Leeds	25
1841	November 23, Mount Osborne Pit, Barnsley	15
1845	March 5th, Oaks Colliery, Leeds	9
1849	January 24th, Barley Main, near Barnsley	75
1851	December 20th, Warren Vale Pit, Rawmarsh, near Rotherham	50
1857	February 19th, Lundhill, Barnsley	189
1860	February 15, Hingham Colliery, near Barnsley	14
1862	December 5th, Edmund's Main, near Barnsley	64
Total		477

Adding the number of the dead at Barnsley and Hanley (450), this aggregate is now increased to 977.

Last Words of Nasby.

The productions of Petroleum V. Nasby will shortly be issued in book form. The title is Swingin' Round the Circle, by Petroleum V. Nasby, late Pastor of the Church of the New Dispensation, Chaplain to His Excellency the President, and P. M. at Confederate X. Roads, Kentucky—His Ideas of Men, Politics and Things. The "Dedication" runs thus:

DEDICATORY BY THIS BOOK.

To Andrew Johnson, the First and Hope of Dixie; who has his Abolitionism in his native village, Gawney uv his State; member uv the lower house uv Congress and likewise uv the Senate. Vice President and President, and might hev ben Dictator, but who is, nevertheless, a Humble Individual and, who hez swung around the entire circle uv official honor without feeling his Gait much; the first publick man who considered my services worth paying for, and to Alex W. Randall, Postmaster General, his most devoted servant, whose autograph adorns my Commission ez Postmaster, this Volume is respectfully dedikated.

The conclusion, "A Few Last Words," is new, from which the following is an extract:

* * * I did my readers farewell in a period uv gloom rarely ekaled, and never surpast, for the Dunocrisy. Never in my rekolekshun was the party in such a state uv abject cussidness. The Northern States hev slipt from our grasp one by one, only nine remains which we kin fondly call ours. The Border States are lost: their Dunocrisy, and rallyin under the black banner uv Abolitionism, and the ten States which we hev control on fortunitly ain't got no voice in the Guvernment. From the mountain tops uv Maine, and the level parairies uv Illinoy, the remnants uv the Dunocrisy holler to us uv the South, "Be firm! we'll stand by you!" and from the rich cotton fields uv the South holler to them uv the North, "Keep up your sperits! we are true to you!" all uv which is very cheerin' when them uv the North is in such a hopeless minority ez to be unable to elect a township constable, and them in the South hain't got no vote at all!

"I appeal, however, with the rest uv the leaders, to the Dunocrisy to remain firm. Suthin will come in time—what, I can't with any degree of certainty now state, but suthin will come. The Abolitionists cannot allus rool. The cuss uv the old Whig party was, that the respective individual members thereof red and rote and red and red a knack uv doin their own thinkin, and there for it cood not be brot into that state uv discipline so necessary to success ez a party. The same cuss is hanging onto the Abolitionists. They hang together from 1856 to 1860 cause there was not they cood call a prinsipple at stake; and on that prinsipple they elected Linkin. They would hev fallen to pieces then, but our Southern brethren decided to commence oppressbuns for the Govermunt they hed so long dalred, and the overwhelmin pressure uv the war smothered all minor sub jeks and all individuoal feelin, and they hung together long enough to see them throo. Now, still for the prinsipple wich welded em dooren the war, they are holdin together yit, and probably will until they can think uv a question wich they are disposin uv is disposed uv. Then they will split up and our opsin is made. We hev a good plan lanx week they can't win over or detach from us. We hev them old veterans who voted for Jaxon, and who are still votin for him. We hev them sturdy old yoemanry who will swear that Blue Lite Federalism ought to be put down and can't be tolarated in a Republikan Government, and who bless their old souls! don't know no more what Blue Lite Federalism wuz than an unborn baby does uv Guy Fawkes. We hev that solid army uv voters whose knees yawn biddisly, and whose coats is out at the elbows, and whose children go barefooted in the winter, while their dads is drinkin cheap whisky, and damin the Government for imposin a income tax. We hev the patriotic citizens whose noses blossom like the lobster, and who live in ez good a house ez there is in Portland, and ez fine a light at can be made. to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract strabismus or cross eyes.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I John B. Jodwan, was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr. G. W. Brown, and stated my case to him, and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and command all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr. G. W. Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured.

SATURDAY, Feb 10 1866.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years, and was doctored by other physicians without obtaining any relief when finally I took her to Dr. G. W. Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and has sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON,

Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon.

SALEM, July 21, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months and almost blind for one year and a half. I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit. I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar affliction that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

To Soldiers Claiming Bounties

UNDER THE

EQUALIZATION BOUNTY BILL!

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING RECENTLY returned from Washington City, where he has made the proper arrangements for the collections of the Extra Bounty of $100 allowed to all soldiers enlisting after the 19th day of April, 1861, for a period of not less than three years, and $50 for soldiers enlisted for a period of not less than two years.

Persons entitled to the benefits of said Bounty will find it to their interest to attend to its collection at once. Having an Agent at Washington and personal knowledge of the mode of making collections through the Departments I can get returns promptly.

☞ Call with your discharge, and two witnesses for identification, at the Publication Office of the Daily Oregonian, No. 5 Washington St., Portland.

A. BUSHWILLER, Claim Agent.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES, UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, September 10, 1866.

1 All applications shall be filed within the period of six months, from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made, shall be examined by regimental, brigade or other competent organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2. No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than one hundred dollars for any term of military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from enrolling soldiers shall be in the form herein prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required; and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. All questions as to the examination of the claims of any regiment or other independent organization, shall, where been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5. A register is to be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor of all claims presented under the law in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that to which the discharge therein stated otherwise refers.

7. Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8. Soldiers enlisted for three years or during the war, who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9. The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non residents in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received in the line of duty, who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who under previous laws have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned loaned transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which those heirs received were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion on the point whether the rules and regulations as within amended are in conformity with law.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

I have examined these amended regulations and am of opinion they are in conformity with law.

HENRY STANBERY, Attorney General.

September 15 1866.

The foregoing rules as I respectfully have published for the information and guidance of all concerned.

By order of the Secretary of War.

E. D. TOWNSEND, Assistant Adjutant General.
